

THERESA CASCIO

Theresa Cascio joined HPA as an Associate in 2019 after receiving her Master of Architecture at the University of Texas at Austin. Her interest in sustainable architecture led her to work on community development projects in Berlin and London, build net-zero prefabricated homes in both California and West Texas, and track and implement LEED goals and the performance of municipal buildings for the City of Austin. Her project portfolio at HPA includes Soho House Portland and the multiple-tower Halsted Point development by Onni Group.

Theresa is a member of HPA's Preservation Group. She gains architectural inspiration from the ways in which different countries address preservation, adaptive reuse and art to shape the fabric of their cities.